

Red China Fears Holy War With Escape of Dalai

By WATSON SIMS

NEW DELHI, India, (AP) — Red China showed fears today that the Dalai Lama's escape to India might spark a holy war against communism in the Far East.

A 28-year-old, godking as still the political leader of the Tibetan kingdom, his enthusiasm created a potential embarrassment for Prime Minister Nehru.

The Indian Premier, worried about offending Peking, is expected to impose curbs on the political activities of the Dalai Lama.

In Hong Kong, a usually reliable source said Nationalist China's President Chiang Kai-shek would offer the Dalai Lama political asylum in Formosa to carry on the fight against Communist overlords.

The frail Dalai Lama, who slipped out of his palace in Lhasa 18 days ago under the noses of Communist guns, was still making his lonely way on a mule back through wild country and, at last reports, bearing up well.

The destination of the monarch, revered by millions as "the living Buddha," still was not clear. One report said he will be flown to New Delhi and reach the capital in about a week.

Red China carefully refrained from attacking the Dalai Lama personally. All propaganda organs were brought out to charge the Tibetan uprising was instigated by foreign reactionaries under the cloak of religion.

Peiping enlisted two clergymen identified as Chinese Catholic leaders as members of a clique that was not recognizing Rome — to defend Red Chinese religious tolerance.

Peiping radio quoted Archbishop Ignatius P. Chou, Cho of the Shengyang archdiocese and Tiao Sheng, vice chairman of the Patriotic Catholic Assn., as saying the Tibetan revolt "has nothing to do with religion."

Jap Court Is Asked to Change Ruling

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government asked the Supreme Court today to reverse a lower court ruling that the presence of U.S. bases and troops in Japan is unconstitutional.

The district prosecutor's office appealed directly to the highest court to speed up a final ruling which, under normally slow Japanese court procedure, could take months or even years.

If the Supreme Court upholds the decision of the Tokyo District Court, it could mean Japan's removal from the non-Communist world's defense setup. But undoubtedly such a decision would result in an urgent campaign to amend the constitution.

Directly at stake is the 1951 U.S.-Japan security treaty, giving the United States the right to maintain bases and troops in Japan, and agreements to implement the treaty.

The Tokyo District Court said these pacts violated Article Nine of Japan's constitution, which forbids war as an instrument of national policy. The constitution was largely written by U.S. occupation officials. Gen. Douglas MacArthur while occupation commander ruled that the "no war" clause did not prevent Japan from having military forces for defense purposes only.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's ruling Liberal-Democratic party supports this view and the presence of U.S. forces in Japan as a defense measure. The Socialists, the chief opposition party, oppose the arrangement and U.S. bases in Japan and are expected to make the lower court ruling a major political issue.

Gen. Schriever in Line for New Star

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Bernard Schriever, chief of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, is in line for a third star as a new job.

The White House announced Thursday that President Eisenhower will nominate Schriever to be a lieutenant general after Congress returns from its Easter recess.

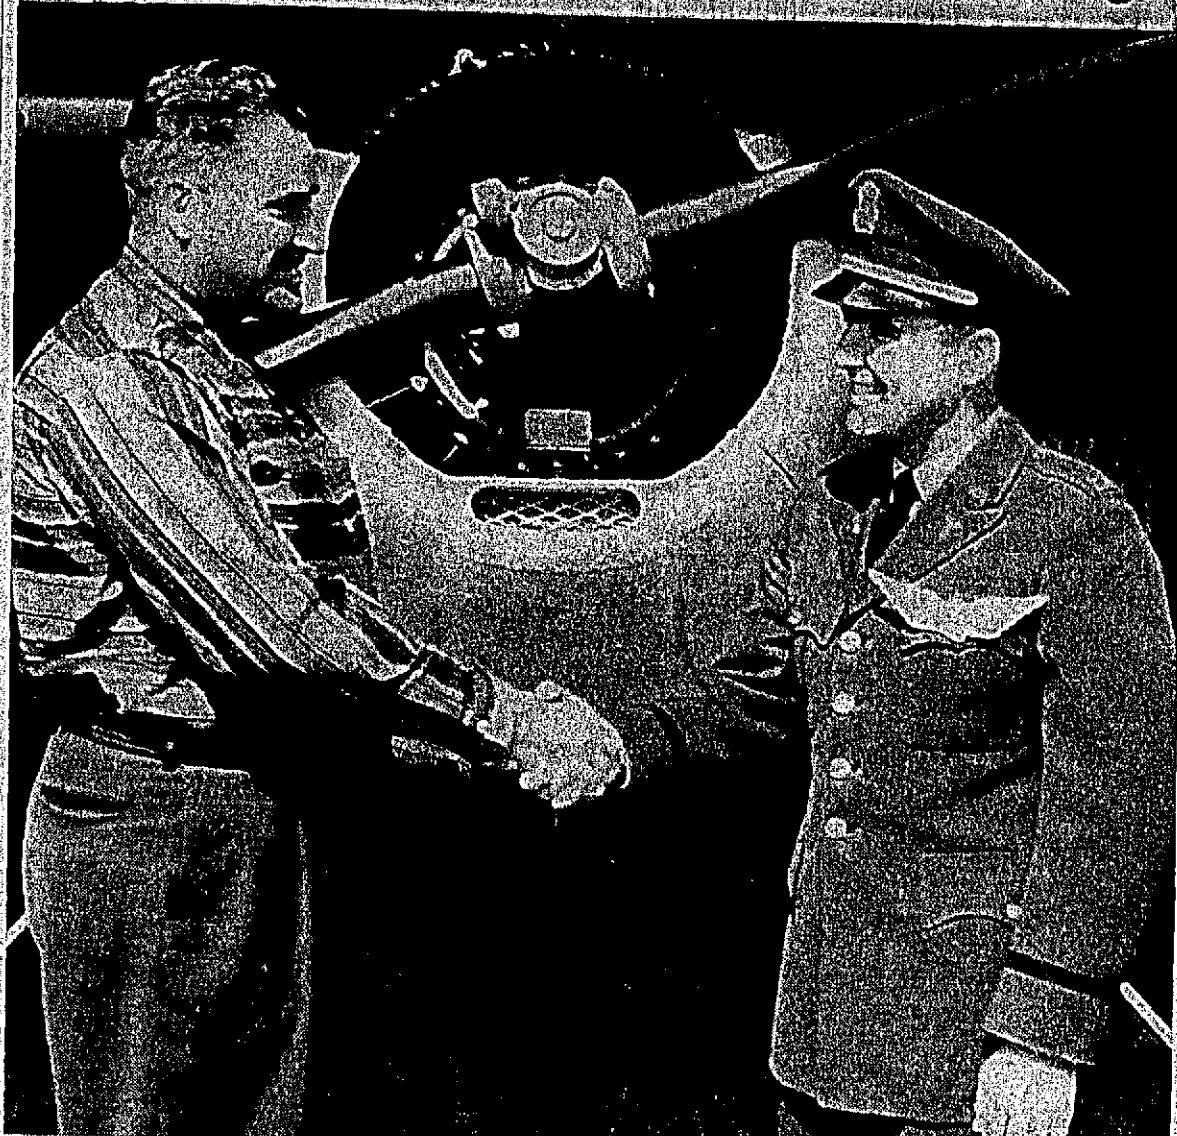

It also was announced that Schriever is to take over as chief of air research and development, succeeding Lt. Gen. Samuel E. Anderson, who recently was reassigned to air materiel.

The Air Force said Schriever's deputy, Brig. Gen. Osmond J. Riland, will become head of the ballistic missiles division.

Local Doctor Makes First Solo Flight

CAPTAIN Lowell O. Harris, of the U. S. Army Medical Corps is shown receiving oversized wings after having made his first solo flight on March 26th. Captain Harris is the Post Surgeon at the Black Hills Ordnance Depot, South Dakota, and is an active member of the Army Flying Club. Prior to entering the Army in January 1958, Captain Harris was associated in the practice of medicine with his brother, Dr. Lynn Harris. Captain and Mrs. Harris and their three boys plan to resume residence in Hope after release from military service next January.

Knows Spring Has Really Come by the Activity of the Birds

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Now, I know it's true. Spring is really here, for I've seen a robin, who is the traditional messenger of the season; a blue Jay, who may be a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde type but is still beautiful to behold; and a pair of red birds, who stopped outside my window to have a marital discussion the other day concerning a house they were building.

The red birds each had a personal opinion about where and how it should be built, and neither was timid about putting in his or her "two chirps' worth." Papa Redback was certainly no hen-pecked bird.

In our part of the country, we usually have some type of feathered friend with us the year around, though. A little mockingbird kept up a marathon monologue outside our kitchen all winter. That is really a remarkable member of the bird's flying patrol.

No wonder the mockingbird was chosen the State Bird for Arkansas as well as for four other southern states. This mischievous mimic is a favorite throughout the South, and since Arkansas was called "The Wonder State" at that time, it was only natural that our feathered representative should also be a wonder.

If there are any talent scouts in the bird kingdom, Mr. Mockingbird has won all contests "wings down," for he is probably the most brilliant of all singing birds. His repertoire ranges from all types of birds to comic but realistic sounds of other parts of the animal kingdom.

Though I don't know whether reincarnation is a thing that is or is not possible, I have thought about what form I would like to have in a second life. Without a doubt, my choice would be that of a parakeet.

Why, you ask, it's really quite simple, especially from a woman's point of view. A parakeet is delicately beautiful and needs care but gives love and devotion in return for it. Where a creature like a parakeet lives there is never a dull moment and occasionally "flying off the handle" is expected.

Last, but not least by any means, a parakeet can talk. To someone like yours truly that is not a nicety but a necessity.

The foregoing paragraphs may have seemed like something that is "strictly for the birds," but I may be that I am going so that I have "gone to seed."

It is not for me to say except that I've enjoyed being up in the clouds with you, and I plan to be a little more down to earth the next time we meet.

Nazarenes Expect Record Crowd Sunday

Sunday, Hope Church of the Nazarenes is expecting a record-breaking attendance in Sunday School. The record attendance was set exactly one year ago (April 6, 1958) the attendance then was 100. This Sunday is expected to see this record topped by at least one.

The plans are to have a photograph made of this record-breaking crowd and to give an enlarged, colored copy (one each) to the adult and to the child or young person who is responsible for bringing the most to Sunday School.

This day is planned in this way as a part of a fitting climax to the revival (with Rev. James Langford) that is now in progress.

Probers to Report on Crash Cause

MOUNTAIN HOME AFB, Idaho (AP) — Air Force investigators are expected to report today on the B-47 Stratojet crash which killed its four occupants.

The plane crashed in sagebrush flatlands eight miles from this southwestern Idaho base Thursday.

Victims were Col. Herbert I. Shingler Jr., 41, commander of the 43rd Bomb Wing and native of Ashburn, Ga.; Capt. Charles A. Walker, 39, Newton, Kans., navigator; Capt. James R. Hartley Jr., 22, Wakefield, R.I., and 1st Lt. Oscar B. Tucker Jr., 29, pilot, Stonega, Va.

The craft was on a flight over the western states and was not scheduled to land until it got back to its home field, Mountain AFB, Ariz.

It apparently developed trouble over Billings, Mont., and began a long glide to the Idaho base. Just as it entered the traffic pattern it dove into the ground at an almost level flight angle.

Three Lost Aboard a Fishing Yessel

WELLFLEET, Mass. (AP) — A Boston fishing vessel bucking a heavy storm went aground on a sandbar off Cape Cod early today with the loss of two and possibly three lives.

Four survived the wreck of the 83-foot Paul Mino by leaping from the breaking craft and swimming about half a mile to shore.

One of the survivors said Angelo Marino of Everett, owner and skipper of the craft, and one or two others disappeared from sight.

Labor Wants to Revise Price Index

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department wants to revise its consumer price index because American spending habits have changed a great deal in 10 years.

Among the reasons: Americans now buy more television sets, cars, and home appliances—and less dress clothes.

The present index is based on the spending habits of Americans in 1950. To get the index, the government prices about 300 commodities and services in 40 cities.

The index, popularly known as the cost of living index, comes out every month. The system for figuring it could be revised by January 1964 for an estimated $4,600,000, the department says.

In testimony made public today, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell asked a House Appropriation subcommittee for funds to start the revision.

Mitchell testified that the index's basket of commodities, prices and services was growing out of date because of these changes in American life:

1. Families are larger. There are more old people and more children.
2. The population has grown 15 per cent since 1950 and has shifted geographically. A higher proportion of families now live in the Southwest and West.
3. Families are moving to the suburbs, where people spend less on dress clothes and outside entertainment and more on houses and gardens.
4. Family incomes are higher, even when account is taken of higher prices. More money is spent on television, cars, travel, education and medical care. A smaller proportion of income is spent on food. Food expenditures themselves go heavily for frozen foods, meats and fresh fruits.

Capehart Plans New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) says he will introduce a completely new farm bill in Congress within two weeks.

"It is a new approach, has new ideas," the senator said Thursday night, when he announced he was preparing the bill.

"The administration farm policy has broken down. We need new thoughts and ideas," Capehart said. But he denied he was leading any clique in Congress or the Republican party in a revolt against the Eisenhower administration's farm program.

The specific provisions of his bill, said: "In general, it will provide for reducing surpluses, increasing farm prices, and getting the taxpayers out of the farm business."

Thinks Southerner Could Be Elected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) says he thinks either a Roman Catholic or a Southerner could be elected President.

Gore, a Baptist, said Thursday night in a radio interview he abhors both sectional and religious prejudices in politics.

NATO Solid in Warning About Use of Force

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — NATO foreign ministers conclude their Berlin crisis conference today with a new solid-front warning to the Soviet Union against trying to force the Western powers out of West Berlin.

In three days of meetings here the 15-nation NATO Council was reported to have endorsed fully the determination of the Western Big Three to hold on in Berlin in the face of Soviet threats and pressures.

Just now, the Western powers propose to resolve the Berlin dispute in negotiations with the Soviet Union, beginning at Geneva May 11, remains undecided, however. The North Atlantic Treaty was signed here 10 years ago today.

Sentiment within the NATO Council appeared to be growing in favor of assigning a prominent role in any arrangement to the United Nations.

Canadian Defense Minister George Pearkes proposed Friday that in preparing for negotiations with the Soviets the Allies consider advancing that U.N. personnel stand watch along the access routes between West Berlin and West Germany.

Both the United States and France were reported cool to the idea on the theory it might weaken their wartime rights in Berlin and Germany.

Pearkes said any new Berlin arrangement worked out with the Soviets should be based upon the presently existing right of the United States, Britain and France to keep forces in West Berlin as a result of their victory over Germany in World War II.

Soviet forces are in East Berlin on the same basis but the Soviet Union has proposed to end its occupation responsibilities and turn over full authority to the East German Communist regime.

Since the Soviets have a veto in the United Nations, any plan such as that proposed by Canada would have to have "Soviet approval" to go into effect.

Diplomatic officials reported that in Friday's closed-door meeting of the Council, several points were stressed by various speakers.

But everyone who spoke, one informant said, used the word "firmness" to describe what he thought the basic Western attitude toward the Soviet Union should be. And the point was made repeatedly that any concessions given to the Soviets must be met by equal concessions from them and must not upset the balance of power in Europe.

Another principle on which the Council members appeared to be solidly agreed was that the Big Three, with the backing of the Western allies, must not remove their troops from West Berlin. That, they stressed, would mean abandoning the 2 million people there to Communist conquest — a result which could lead to the breakdown of the Atlantic Alliance.

Narcotics Case Now in the Hands of Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — The narcotics conspiracy case of underworld chief Vito Genovese and 15 other defendants was in the hands of a federal court jury today after a three-month trial.

The jury of seven women and five men was locked up in a hotel Thursday night.

Judge Alexander Bicks delivered an 8½-hour charge of 30,000 words before giving the case to the jury. He stressed that the case of each defendant must be considered individually.

The prosecution depicted Genovese, 61, as the "control man" of a multimillion-dollar ring that brought in narcotics from Europe, Cuba, Puerto Rico and Mexico.

The defense described him as a legitimate, $225-a-week business executive.

Genovese, a resident of Atlantic Highlands, N.J., has had many brushes with the law but never has been convicted of a crime.

Authorities list him among the 60-odd underworld figures and associates who attended the convention at Apalachin, N.Y., Nov. 14, 1957. Officials also have called him a leader of the Mafia, the international crime and terror band that had its ancient roots in Sicily.

U.S. Launches 3 Big Missiles In Sky Show

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A spectacular sky show rocked the Cape Friday when three big ballistic missiles were launched in the span of 7½ hours.

It was reported unofficially that all the tests were successful.

As far as it was known, some sort of record was set when the powerful Titan ICBM, a bold, 60-ton air-to-ground research rocket, and a Jupiter intermediate-range weapon were fired toward ocean targets.

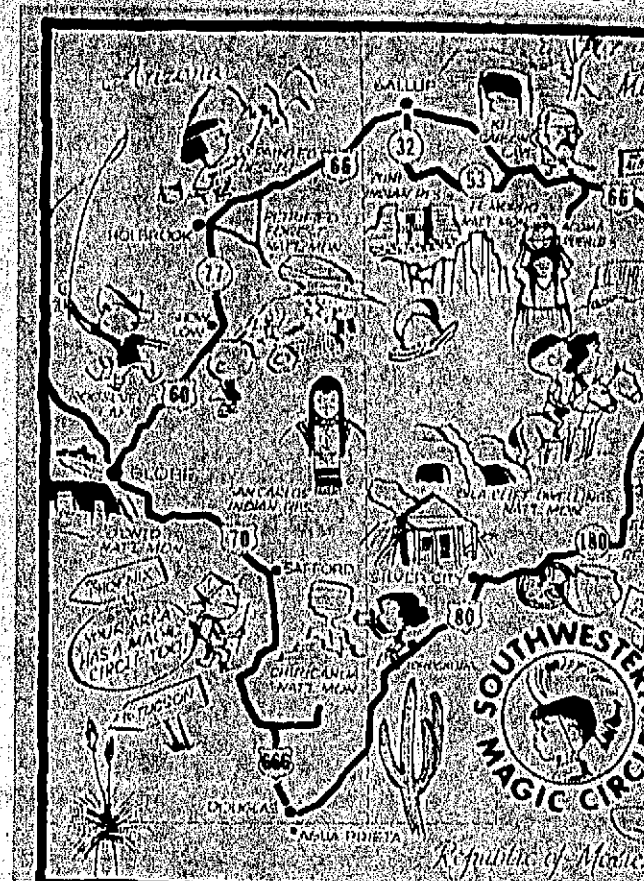

None of the missile veterans could recall when three ballistic missiles had been launched previously in one day.

It was the third straight triumph for the 90-foot Titan, which the Air Force hopes to make operational in an underground launching sites within a year. The 110-ton rocket, carrying an inactive second stage, was fired on a limited-range flight of about 300 miles.

Titan, first of the advanced "second generation" missiles in the U.S. arsenal, was launched successfully for the third time in 56 days by Martin Co. crewmen.

Several hours later, a B-47 jet bomber roared in over the Cape and shot the 25-foot Bold Orion last-vehicle 700 miles down range. The solid-fuel two-stage missile, which is capable of spanning distances of more than 1,000 miles when developed.

National Monument Hold Interest in the Southwest

EXCELLENT HIGHWAYS have opened the Southwest's back doors to vast scenic and historic wonders. The Magic Circle leads to Chiricahua National Monument, a weird land of stone officalies; San Carlos Indian Reservation; Petrified Forest National Monument; the Indian Capital; Zuni Pueblo; El Morro National Monument, where Spanish conquistadors left their names on Inscription Rock; Acacia Pueblo, the sky city; Elephant Butte Reservoir, a favorite water playground; Silver City, where pack trips can be taken to Gila Cliff Dwellings National Monument.

Editor's Note: This is the 18th in a series of suggested highway tour maps which Hope Star is publishing weekly. The series will cover the South and Southwest during the winter months and the Northern sections in the spring. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

By EDWARD COLLIER

The violence of conquest, and the savagery of nature are recorded for all to see in the luridly United sundland of eastern Arizona and western New Mexico.

Excellent highways have opened the Southwest's back doors of hidden history and weird caprices of nature; the government has preserved and protected these legacies through more than two dozen national monuments, best described as national parks in miniature.

We worked out the Magic Circle tour that took us, during a spring vacation, from the Mexican border through a desert carpeted with yellow, purple and red blossoms, to the land of the Apaches, prehistoric cliff dwellings, forests of stone, landmarks of the Spanish conquistadors and modern Indian pueblos.

First objective north of Douglas, Arizona, was Chiricahua National Monument, whose formations open up a world of fantasy and unreal. Your introduction into this wonderland of rocks comes with startling suddenness. For miles (State 181) the road has followed a valley dotted by cattle ranches.

For striking photos, allow time to follow some of the well-marked foot and horseback trails to get close-ups of such freaks in stone as the Duck, Thor's Hammer, Punch and Judy, Totem Pole and hundreds more that you will give names of your own. It adds up to a wonderful family guessing game.

The scene is peaceful and pastoral when you turn northwest at Safford (U.S. 70) where the Gila River Valley's fields of cotton, alfalfa and grain. Warm sunlight floods the land, turning the snow-crested top of Mt. Graham a misty blue.

Proud Apaches Indian wickiups, circular houses built of sticks, tell you when the highway starts through San Carlos Reservation, home of the peaceful, proud Apaches. Educated and group owners of the largest cattle ranches in America, these are a friendly people, but will resent your trying to "steal" a photo or movie shot.

Your first impression of Globe, set in a desert mountain cup, belies its rip-roaring history that started when a huge sphere of pure silver ore was found in the 1870's to launch it as a famous mining camp. Later, the discovery of copper gave it continuing prosperity. Now they are prospecting for uranium.

There is a fascinating side trip from Globe up the old Apache Trail, now paved (State 88), to Tonto National Monument. Under a natural arch in the face of a canyon wall are two well-preserved cliff dwellings. A switch back trail with markers placed by the National Park Service to identify the rock formations and plant life leads up to the prehistoric ruins. After examining the creative handiwork of a people who built and then deserted these apartments nearly 600 years ago, you also have the reward of sweeping vistas.

Rains Let Up After Flooding Some Sections

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rains, which doused wide areas in the eastern half of the nation, diminished in most areas today as flood dangers in some Midwest states began to recede.

Tornadoes struck two small communities in central Missouri Thursday night, causing some property damage. No one was injured as the twisters damaged 10 houses and one in Ottumwa, population 400. Strong winds with gusts up to 72 m.p.h. lashed St. Joseph, in northwest Missouri.

Earlier Thursday tornadoes hit the Dade City and Orlando, Fla. areas, killing one person and injuring nine others. Damage was estimated at more than one million dollars. A twister also struck a rural area near Washington, N.C., damaging several buildings.

Floods plagued areas in northeastern Iowa, southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois. Heavy spring rains have caused some flooding in sections of Missouri, Michigan, Indiana, New York, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and western Washington.

Some 1,700 persons have been forced from their homes in the Rockford, Ill., area by flood waters from the Rock River. More rain fell in the area during the night.

Showers or occasional rains were expected to continue during the day from the Great Lakes region southward into the Ohio and Tennessee valleys, spreading eastward into parts of the mid-Atlantic Coast by tonight.

New Cold Vaccine Is Predicted Soon

CHICAGO (AP) — An expert today predicted a vaccine that will prevent from 60 to 70 per cent of all common colds probably will be available within the next two years.

Dr. Thomas G. Ward, professor of virology at the University of Notre Dame, said he believes a vaccine can be developed against "an acceptable proportion of the common colds."

He said 75 to 80 per cent of common colds are caused by a group of viruses or a group of bacteria of the streptococcus type. Vaccines made from dead or tamed viruses can be injected into the body and develop resistance against viruses.

"I realize that I have stuck my neck out," Dr. Ward commented in an interview in Today's Health, a magazine published by the American Medical Assn.

HD Council to Meet Here Wednesday

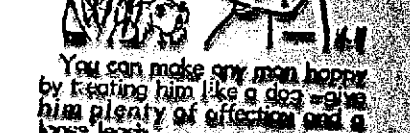

The annual spring meeting of the Hempstead county council of Home Demonstration Clubs will be held Wednesday, April 8 at the W. O. W. Hall in Hope beginning with registration at 9:30 a.m. The Liberty Hill Home Demonstration Club is in charge of registration.

las of a jagged, cacti-studded land that leads down to the deep blue waters of Lake Roosevelt.

There is a pine-enclosed sample of Arizona's beautiful White Mountains area around the town. Show Low before the road turns north (State 77) through Snowflake. Just before reaching Holbrook and transcontinental route U.S. 86, you turn east for the 10 miles to one of nature's all-time attractions, Petrified Forest National Monument.

Weird Forest! Nowhere in the world is there a forest like this one: your impression is one of unreality, desolation — as if some prehistoric giant had haphazardly felled all the trees, and they had turned to stone. At second glance you are struck by the full spectrum of rainbow colors that are present in every fragment, branch or trunk.

The full beauty and radiance of the Petrified Forest specimens is best seen where a cross section of a log has been exposed to polishing by wind and sand over the centuries.

The favorite camera subject of my boys were Newspaper Rock, where prehistoric men scribbled their news and pictures on a protected sandstone wall. Agate Bridge, a 111-foot-long, petrified log that spans a 40 foot ravine; and Old Faithful, a giant that fell millions of years ago when this was a teeming tropic jungle.

The north entrance to Petrified Forest National Monument leads you onto U.S. 66 at a point where there is a dramatic vista of the Painted Desert. From overlooks on the five-mile Rim Drive, the weird wilderness of color stretches far past the visible horizon, a jumble of panchromatic sands and eroded mounds that resemble tepees. I shall never forget the impression I had when I first visited the Painted Desert many years ago with my father — I was sure that little Navajo Indian boys had been busy with their paint pots, since this vast reservation home.

Gallop just across the New Mexico border, is one of America's most fascinating little cities. Regardless of how you are dressed, you are inconspicuous here. On the street is a cosmopolitan mingling of ranchers; Indians; uranium prospectors, tourists in shorts or blue jeans, uniformed men from nearby Fort Wingate.

Doris Day's Records Sell in Russia

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Know who's the most popular American singer in Russia (discounting Paul Robeson)?

Doris Day
No one is more surprised than the breezy, all-American blonde at the news that her recordings outsell any other U. S. platters in the U.S.S.R. — and she can't understand why.

"It's flattery, I guess," Doris laughed. "But I'm mystified."

"Maybe I should sing a special song in Russian and send it over. How about something like 'When the Communists flock to Vladivostok.' It just might make their hit parade."

Doris, bright as a spring day in pink sweater, ruffled blouse and gray flannel slacks, also has the distinction of being the only consistent feminine vocalist among the top 10 recording stars in this country.

It comes as something of a shock to find her name among those of Ricky Nelson and Elvis Presley, Tommy Sands, Pat Boone and other rock 'n' roll fan artists.

"I must appeal to the same teenage group," she surmised. "But I don't sing the same kind of music. Maybe I've been fortunate in having as many good songs come my way. New ones I mean."

"Personally I wish more girl singers were as popular as the young male vocalists. More women and girls buy records than men, and I guess the female population would rather listen to male voices."

To preserve her place at the top of the platter pile Doris records two albums a year and cuts four single records every six weeks. This in addition to turning out two movies a year.

It was Doris' voice, however, that brought her movie stardom. She succeeded where other big name vocalists such as Dinah Shore, Rosemary Clooney, Peggy Lee failed. The others turned to television, with varying degrees of success, but the Cincinnati-born songbird is sticking to pictures.

No Time For TV
"I just don't have time for TV," she explained. "My only appearances were on 'What's My Line' and the 'Academy Award Show.' I've thought about doing a spectacular, but I'd want it to be on the same scale as 'Frank Sinatra's program. Too many people are watching not to give your very best.'"

Doris, 1958's boxoffice champ among actresses, currently is teamed with the male boxoffice leader, Rock Hudson, in "Any Way the Wind Blows" at Universal-International.

There is an animation, a melody in her voice even when she talks.

"Once the picture is over I head out across country to plug the opening of another movie," she said happily. "But I'm leaving early to spend some time in my home town Cincinnati."

Sky City
After rejoining U.S. 66 at Grants a uranium boom town, the next side trip (State 23) into another world is to Acoma, the "Pueblo in the sky" located on a giant rock mesa rising 400 feet above the plains below. Only a few Indian families live at the old pueblo where there is a beautiful 17th century mission church; the rest return to their sky city from the farming settlement on the surrounding plains at fiesta time in September.

Three miles away is a mountain of mystery called Enchanted Mesa. Here according to Acoma legend, there was once a great pueblo which was abandoned when a violent storm destroyed the only path up to its summit.

From Acoma the Magic Circle curves south (State 6 and U.S. 85) down the Rio Grande Valley to Elephant Butte Reservoir. The vivid blue waters of this man-made lake have become a favorite water playground for travelers and New Mexicans alike.

Gila Cliff Dwellings National Monument, in the heart of the Gila National Forest wilderness, can be reached only by a rewarding pack trail from Silver City.

CROSS OVER THE BRIDGE—One method of crossing a rope bridge is demonstrated by Capt. Paul Lawrence of the ceremonial "Old Guard" of Ft. Meyer, Va. The crossing was made at Great Falls Park, north of Washington, D.C. The Potomac River churns far below him. The 120 guardsmen abandoned their dress blues for the day to continue ranger training. Afterwards, they went back to their barracks to polish brass for a funeral the following day. Lawrence is a graduate of the Army's ranger school and acted as instructor.

Hawaiian Ritual Is Realistic

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
HONOLULU (AP)—Burning incense and sweet tea poured over a statue among the ritual highlights of an annual religious observance Sunday in Hawaii.

It's the day when the large Buddhist population of the 30th state-to-be takes note of the 2,600th birthday of Siddhartha Gautama, the Buddha or Enlightened One, founder of their faith.

Buddhists probably make up more than 10 per cent of the islands' population although the exact number is difficult to determine since Buddhists join the temple as family units.

About 20,000 Japanese families practice Buddhism in Hawaii which—figuring an average of four to a family—means a total membership of 80,000. But the estimate may be conservative.

Roughly 12,000 family units belong to the Hongpa Hongwanji Mission, a member of the Shin sect and the largest in the islands. Buddhists are divided into a dozen or more sects.

The Buddhist population of Hawaii is rising only very slowly. Many of the younger generation join Christian churches because of the strong influence of the American community which is predominantly Christian in religion. Eng-

Dalai Lama's Escape Hailed by Tibetans

By WATSON SIMS

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Tibetan exiles today hailed the escape of the Dalai Lama into India after a perilous flight from the Chinese Reds. They declared he still is their god-king.

Prime Minister Nehru confirmed to a cheering Parliament that the 23-year-old living Buddha of Tibet had reached a haven in India three nights ago, an escape first announced by the "Peiping" radio Thursday.

"Yes, he is in good health," Nehru said. Indicating the Dalai Lama will be given quick asylum, he promised that the refugee will be treated with great respect.

Prayers of thanksgiving were offered by Tibetan exiles from New Delhi to Kalimpong, the town near Tibet's frontier. The people at Kalimpong went wild with joy.

Nehru said the Dalai Lama crossed the border in northeast India north of the village of Towang, about 500 miles north of Calcutta. Towang has the largest Buddhist monastery in India.

The Dalai Lama and his party of about 80 are now approaching Towang.

Well-informed sources in Kalimpong said the Dalai Lama made his daring trek of about 300 miles from the capital of Lhasa to the Indian border in two weeks. Sometimes the fugitives saw Chinese Communist search planes overhead.

With the protection of fierce Khampa tribesmen, leaders in Tibet's rebellion, the Dalai Lama crossed great rivers and high mountain passes to reach the frontier, these sources said.

64-PROOF

BUTLER, N. J. (AP) — Barnard Nettie McCormick is 84 years old, owns her own tavern, and specializes in making manhattans. Among her customers have been Babe Ruth and the late "Uncle Don" of radio fame.

Nettie says customers today are more polite. They are also ordering more mixed drinks. Drinkers who order a "shot and a beer" are dwindling in number, she says.

Buddhist rituals follow age-old tradition but recently more and more sermons and other services are offered in English. Many Buddhist students are given scholarships in the United States.

The birthday observance Sunday centers on the dedication of a recently arrived three-foot statue showing Buddha as a child. The traditional sweet tea that will be poured over the statue symbolizes the belief that when Buddha was born it rained sweet tea to wash his body.

The ceremonies also include the burning of incense, chanting of sutras (Buddhist scriptures), singing of gathas (Buddhist hymns) and symbolic dances by Sunday School children dressed in colorful, traditional costumes.

Doris Day's Records Sell in Russia

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Know who's the most popular American singer in Russia (discounting Paul Robeson)?

Doris Day
No one is more surprised than the breezy, all-American blonde at the news that her recordings outsell any other U. S. platters in the U. S. S. R. — and she can't understand why.

"It's flatterin', I guess," Doris laughed. "But I'm mystified. 'Maybe I should sing a special song in Russian and send it over. How about something like 'When the Communists flock to Vladivostok,' it just might make their little parade."

Doris, bright as a spring day in pink sweater, ruffled blouse and gray flannel slacks, also has the distinction of being the only consistent feminine vocalist among the top 10 recording stars in this country.

It comes as something of a shock to find her name among those of Ricky Nelson, and Elvis Presley, Tommy Sands, Pat Boone and other rock 'n' roll artists.

"I must appeal to the same teenage group," she surmised. "But I don't sing the same kind of music. Maybe I've been fortunate in having as many good songs come my way. New ones I mean."

"Personally, I wish more girl singers were as popular as the young male vocalists. More women and girls buy records than men, and I guess the female population would rather listen to male voices."

To preserve her place at the top of the platter pile Doris records two albums a year and cuts four single records every six weeks. In this addition to turning out two movies a year.

It was Doris' voice, however, that brought her movie stardom. She succeeded where other big name vocalists such (Dinah Shore, Rosemary Clooney, Peggy Lee) failed. The others turned to television, with varying degrees of success, but the Cincinnati-born songbird is sticking to pictures.

No Time For TV
"I just don't have time for TV," she explained. "My only appearances were on 'What's My Line' and the 'Academy Award Show.' I've thought about doing a spectacular, but I'd want it to be on the same scale as Fred Astaire's program. Too many people are watching not to give you a very best."

Doris, 1958's boxoffice champ among actresses, currently is teamed with the male boxoffice leader, Rock Hudson, in "Any Way The Wind Blows" at Universal-International.

There is an animation, a melody in her voice even when she heads out across country to plug the opening of another movie," she said happily. "But I'm leaving early to spend some time in my home town—Cincinnati."

CROSS OVER THE BRIDGE—One method of crossing a rope bridge is demonstrated by Capt. Paul Lawrence of the ceremonial "Old Guard" of Ft. Meyer, Va. The crossing was made at Great Falls Park, north of Washington, D.C. The Potomac River churns far below him. The 120 guardsmen abandoned their dress blues for the day to continue ranger training. Afterwards, they went back to their barracks to polish brass for a funeral the following day. Lawrence is a graduate of the Army's ranger school and acted as instructor.

Christianity and Cool Jazz

NOIWAALK, Conn. (AP) — Can cool jazz prove that Christianity is not old-fashioned? An Episcopal rector here thinks so. His congregation will hear the "Jazz Mass" Sunday. The Rev. Anthony P. Treasure, rector of St. Pauls Episcopal church, explained that it was written a few years ago by a British rector for his congregation. It is rarely heard in American churches. The Rev. Mr. Treasure said he wants to present it once, primarily for the younger members of his congregation. Asked to describe the mass, he said it is "what you might call cool jazz."

Phone Firm Asks Blanket Rate Hike

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Allied Telephone Co. seeks a blanket rate increase in the 20 central and south Arkansas communities it serves in a petition filed with the state Public Service Commission yesterday. The commission set a public hearing for April 20 on the request. The company, with headquarters at Little Rock, wants to raise one-party business phone rates from $7.75 to $9.50 and residential rates from $5 to $6 on one party lines. A sliding scale of rates would be placed on other lines. Allied said it hoped to receive an additional $4,200 dollars a year through the rate hikes which it wants to put into effect May 1. "The company said it earned less than one per cent last year on its investment."

OUTDOORS

with John Alden Knight

There is nothing of some years standing down in the Florida Keys when you go. You don't have to be a fisherman to go to the Keys. You can go to the Keys and be a fisherman. You can go to the Keys and be a fisherman. You can go to the Keys and be a fisherman.

Yet that is exactly the way in which my son, Dick, and I are spending our time these days on the sand flats of Florida Bay and adjacent waters, all of which lie west of the upper Keys, a part of the Gulf of Mexico.

Tarpon, the great majority of them, are migratory. To be sure, here and there in Florida Bay waters you will find permanent residents who stay there the year around but about 95 per cent of the tarpon live in that area through the last of March are thence on through the summer are migrants.

The influx of these big fish from mid-March on is prompted by the annual spawning urge. They move in schools, working their way gradually north, their progress being governed largely by water temperatures. Where these fish come from is not clearly known but they do show up, year after year, usually in March.

Their common objective is the chain of tarpon basins, which lie to the west of the Keys. These broad areas, fringed by shallow sand flats, are paved with what is generally known as "tarpon grass." This covers the flat for the protection of the tarpon eggs, mark the end of the spawning migration and the big fish seek them out annually, returning probably to the very grounds on which they were born.

Tarpon are known as "free spawners." They do not make nests or "reds" as do many other fish and deposit therein their eggs in a group. Instead, the schools swim slowly in circles and broadcast their eggs which sink slowly to the protective cover of the tarpon grass, there to germinate and hatch. While the spawning not done in this way the eggs would be consumed in short order by the myriads of smaller fish which inhabit these same waters.

The tarpon, being the King-size fish that he is, has comparatively few natural enemies. His sides are sheathed in tough scales which amounts almost to armor plate. Thus, he is not particularly shy or wary as are the bonafish or the snook. Casting to him is a comparatively simple matter and he will take just about any sort of lure which happens to strike his fancy.

But when it comes to hooking him — well, that is another matter entirely. The mouth of a tarpon is almost all solid bone. The lower lip and jaw are so large that there is little chance of reaching the softer membranes under his chin. About the only places where you can have any chance to drive in the hook so that the barb is buried are the two "corners" of his mouth where upper and lower lips meet.

Thus hooking him solidly is a problem, particularly with a fly. If you try to set the hook while the fish is facing you, your chances are 50 to one against you. The only way to hook a tarpon with a fly is with any degree of consistency to wait until he turns and is going away from you. This is easier than it sounds.

When a tarpon rises to take a fly, rarely does he do so with a flip up rise. Instead he drifts up behind the fly, opens his big mouth (it looks like a bushel basket) and inhales it. Then he turns with a swirl of his big tail. As he turns, that is your cue to raise back and hit him with everything the tackle will stand in the fervent hope that the hook will engage in the comparatively soft membrane of the hinge. If you are lucky enough to do that, the hook will hold; otherwise the fish will jump, open his mouth and snake his head, and out comes your fly.

Should the hook set and you are fast to the fish, then it is you and the tarpon for it. Seven ounces of fly rod, a single-action fly reel, and a 12-pound leader point against upward of 100 pounds of strong, active, angry tarpon. On it, it can be done — the fly rod record now stands at 136 pounds — but, believe me, it takes some doing.

As the Florida guides say, you don't have to be crazy to fish for tarpon with a fly rod but it sure does help.

Finds Women Lied About Their Ages

By FRAAK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Somehow a lot of women who back in 1930 signed on for social security coverage at a professional age of 30 or 35 are turning out now to be 62 and therefore ready to retire.

The way the government counts birthdays, those ladies still have from 4 to 9 years to go before starting to collect their retirement pay. So now they are faced not only with admitting they lied about their ages originally, but with proving it.

Sometimes this is tough. One youngish looking lady in some such fix is reported to have told a social security agent who asked for proof of her birth date: "Well, I don't have any papers or anything, but I've lied so much about being 41 I probably have some friends who will swear they have heard me saying it for the last 30 years."

Jobs Hard To Find

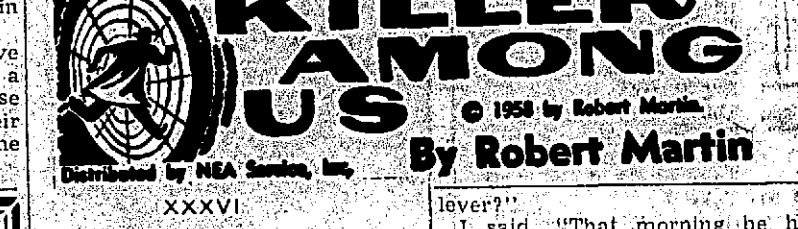

Women apparently have been fibbing about their ages since Eve, who very likely tried to justify her conduct on the grounds she was too young to know any better. And the advent of the social security program in the late '30's certainly was no incentive for the girls to turn honest.

Jobs were hard to come by then, especially for people 40 or over. Women and men too, in those days were giving themselves every benefit of the doubt. Job applicants couldn't believe then, and some still can't, that employers can't check on ages as listed with social security. The government doesn't care, and won't tell if you lie to your boss. It does wish though you would level with your Uncle Sam.

Cites Sampling

A recent sampling by the Social Security Administration showed maybe one person in every 10 had substantially understated his (or her) age in applying for a social security number. The agency claims not to have noticed which sex was the worse offender. It says men as well as women have been caught shaving their ages. It does happen though that many of the case histories the agency cites involve perfidious women.

KILLER AMONG US

By Robert Martin

Once more I sat in Kree's office. Logan Masters was there, listening with bright interest, we had told him of John Simmons' statement.

I said, "I noticed Brandon handling the wheels himself, which seemed strange. A foreman's job is to supervise. How Howard Ackerman saw him, too, and told him to stop it, before the union complained. And I remembered something. If a grinding wheel was dropped, even eight or 10 inches, it might crack the inside structure, break down the bonding agents. The crack would not show on the surface, but the interior weakness would cause the wheel to shatter in normal operation."

Kree leaned over the desk. "Then you suspected Mike Brandon all along?"

"No, no," I said impatiently. "I was concentrating on Quincy. He seemed to have the strongest motive and he had plenty of opportunity. And his record was bad. I didn't realize that it had to be Brandon, not until tonight. On the night I was shot at inside the plant Brandon was the only person involved who had not checked in at the gate, and I figured he had to be the person who cut the hole in the fence. And I also knew that if the guilty person came to the plant tonight, he would certainly not enter by the gate. He could not take a chance on being seen. I planned to wait inside from a spot where I could watch the hole in the fence. But, fortunately, I was denied admission and was forced to approach from outside." I looked directly at Logan Masters.

He stirred uncomfortably. "Jim, I'm sorry about that. But you see—"

"All right," I said, wanting to get it over with. "Simmons told Brandon who really was, and warned me to be careful. But Brandon, after he was forced to kill Jake Stagg, decided to get me out of the way, too, one way or another. Wednesday morning, when Ackerman and I started to walk past the testing machines, he went to the partitioned area where the lever controlling the drive shaft is located. By standing on a box he could easily reach the lever and also see through the opening in the partition. I know, because I did it. When Ackerman and I stopped by the testing drum with the broken clasp he pulled the lever, throwing the drive shaft out of control. The wheel inside the drum revolved, tearing apart, and burst, taking timing, but Brandon did it. I ducked, but Ackerman was too slow. The flying chunks hit him instead of me."

Kree hunched forward still further. "How did you know that it was Mike Brandon who pulled the

Insurance Firm Names President

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski Rep. T. E. Tyler has been elected president and director of the First Arkansas Corp., an insurance holding company. In making the announcement of the election today, the corporation board said former president Grant V. Hansen of Little Rock would continue as a director of the concern. "The corporation owns controlling interests in Royal Life Insurance Co. of Little Rock, the First Tennessee Corp. of Memphis, and the John Sevier Life Insurance Co., also of Memphis."

Hospital Sell Land for $38,050.00

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The State Hospital Board today accepted a $38,050 bid for 49.2 acres of land at the Benton unit. The bid, 1500 more than the appraisal price, came from J. Bryan Sims Jr. of North Little Rock. Sims, an official of Stephens, Inc., a Little Rock investment firm, said he bought the land as a personal investment. "I will hold it and see what develops," he said. "It has some good timber on it." He said he did not buy it as an agent for the Stephens firm.

Catch-all Money Bill Backed by Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus has indicated approval of a "catch-all" appropriation bill for a number of state institutions and agencies introduced and passed during the closing days of the recent legislative session. A largest appropriation would be $1,500,000 for State Hospital construction. Other similar appropriations would include $250,000 for Pea Ridge National Park in Benton County. Identical bills were introduced in the House and Senate. Both passed. The secretary of state's office today said that Faubus on Tuesday vetoed the Senate bill on ground

Thinks West Should Be Ready for War

LONDON (AP) — Responsible British authorities said today if the forthcoming East-West foreign ministers conference fails, the West must be ready should war come. The British believe the West now is confronted with these choices: continued cold war tension, or a solid attempt to end or reduce this tension. British sources point out that a continuance of the cold war would carry a grave risk of war by miscalculation. Officials said that is why Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, in Washington talks, argued strongly for negotiations which offered promise of reducing East-West tension. But Britain is firmly committed to the idea that West Berlin must continue free and along with its Allies, is prepared to make heavy sacrifices and take risks to preserve the city's freedom. Actually, records do not reflect formal approval of the House bill but the governor's statement implied he planned either to sign it or to let it become law without his signature.

Jurors Test Gun in Fatal Shooting

By DONALD L. REEDER

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Twelve male jurors took turns today in testing the trigger pull on the French revolver with which Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas is accused of killing her wealthy lover.

The clicking of the gun echoed in the silent basement courtroom as the jurors—all married men—placed their hands on the trigger, testing for themselves to check the strength of the trigger pull.

It was a key point through which the state hoped to prove that the gun "couldn't" have been fired accidentally in a struggle.

The 25-caliber French revolver was given to the jury after a legal battle on the question of what the jurors should be asked to do with the weapon.

Judge Thomas J. Paulconer sided with the defense in ruling that the jury should not be asked to test the trigger pull. That, said Frank Symmes, one of Mrs. Nicholas' lawyers, would in effect be making witnesses out of the jurors.

Judge Paulconer overruled a defense objection to letting the jury have the pistol.

"Evidence is introduced for the aid of the jury," the judge said. "However, it is not within the province of this court to instruct the jury to do or not to do anything with the evidence."

Dep. Prosecutor Judson T. Haggerty agreed to rephrase his statement in the presence of the jury, eliminating his original request that the jury "experiment" with the gun.

When the jurors returned to the courtroom after the legal arguments, he merely asked that the gun be "exhibited" to the jury.

Faubus Talks for Stand on Integration

DECATUR, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus told a meeting here last night that Arkansas has approached integration "more accurately" than any other state faced with a problem on the issue.

Addressing the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, Faubus said more schools are integrated in Arkansas than in nine other Southern states. Public schools in half a dozen Arkansas cities are integrated on a small scale.

Faubus, who sparked the Little Rock Central High School crisis of 1957 by posting state guardsmen at the school with orders to keep nine Negroes from entering, said any social change such as integration is a process of revolution and education and must be gradual.

Referring to President Eisenhower's action in sending federal paratroopers to Little Rock to enforce court-ordered integration at Central High, after a white mob staged a riot, the governor said: "You take nine people from any community and put them in any school with bayonets and you will cause the same disturbances such as those that came about in Little Rock."

Apparently he meant frequent racial incidents between whites and Negroes at Central High after the federal troops took over the enforcement of integration.

Faubus has always maintained that he ordered out the state guardsmen to prevent any violence at Central High.

He prohibited Little Rock's four public high schools from opening last fall to prevent a resumption of integration and the schools still are closed.

Faubus said his 19-year-old son Fayell attended an integrated state college "which is more than can be said about some who have fought to destroy me."

"Most people say you intervene, not me," the governor asserted.

On the subject of the integration controversy's effect on Arkansas' industrial program, Faubus said this state is second among a group of 19 other states which have similar industrialization plans.

He said the north had lost industries since the Little Rock crisis flared in September, 1957.

"I haven't been as bad a person as some might think," Faubus said at one point.

Leukemia Victim Loses Battle

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Paula Rook of North Little Rock, a 5-year-old leukemia victim, lost her long fight against death today.

She died at a Little Rock hospital where she had been treated for and on in brief stays since last October.

In January, doctors gave the youngster only six months to live. After the verdict appeared in news stories, donations to help pay her expenses began streaming in from the public.

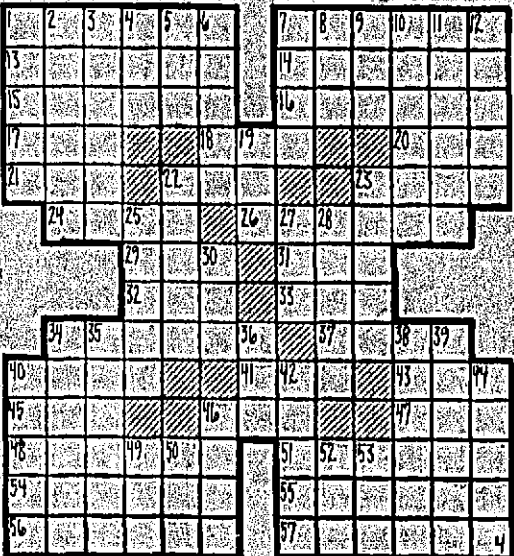

Most of Paula's medical bills were cancelled by Arkansas Baptist Hospital where she received treatment.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fran Rook of North Little Rock, would have been 6 next September. Since she was not expected to live until then, a special birthday party was held for her at a Little Rock bakery March 1 and several hundred persons attended.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

GOD

HIM

Whether of wood, or gold, or other material, The Cross is symbolic of our highest living. It tells of both sacrifice and life at its best. It is a symbol of God, a symbol of Christ, a symbol of the Christian church you attend every week. What would the church be without The Cross! Where might your steps lead were you to forget the Crucifixion! What might happen to your family and to the families of all your friends were it not for the influence of the illumined Cross in their lives. If you would have tomorrow remember you; if you would have your golden years filled with peace and hope... then Keep The Cross Before You Every Day.

This Page Is Dedicated to the Building of More Spiritual and a Greater Church-going Hempstead County.
